CABERNET SAUVIGNON 2012

Robert Parker
WINE ADVOCATE

"The top Cabernet Sauvignon, a wine they have been working on for years, was finally ready to taste. The 2012 Luis Pereira is a wine that wants to go back to the style of yesteryear. It has a medium body, with moderate alcohol (12.8%, which is very unusual in Chile nowadays), more about elegance than power, with smoky notes of merken spices and cured meat, already developing some aromatic complexity. It's produced with grapes from 70-year-old vines, and it fermented with indigenous yeasts. It aged in used barriques for one year and then a further year in large oak foudres. This is a stunning Cabernet Sauvignon-serious, balanced and very fresh. This has both the balance and the stuffing to develop in bottle for a long time", Luis Gutierrez.
